Information Session for

Literacy Communities - an Academic Course for Adults with Intellectual Disabilities

KPU invites adults 19 years of age or older with intellectual disabilities to attend an information session for LCom 0101, a literacy course to help develop reading comprehension, social skills, financial math, and computer skills.

The course is offered to those who are able to attend classes regularly, interact with the instructional team and peers, and manage the campus independently. An academic assessment and an Individualized Learning Plan meeting will be part of the admissions process.

The course will take place twice a week in four-hour blocks from September 2019 to April 2020 at the Surrey campus.

Please forward this communication to any of your clients who may be interested in attending one of our Information Sessions.

Place: KPU, Surrey Campus, 12666 – 72 Avenue

Information Session Dates (attend only one):

Monday, January 28 6:00pm start Room 3055, Cedar Building

Tuesday, February 19 6:00pm start Room 3055, Cedar Building

Please register as soon as possible for an Information Session www.kpu.ca/aca/acp/literacy-communities

Contact Cate at 604-599-2964 if you require further information.

Please note: Class size is limited. Early registration is encouraged as we expect a strong demand for this course.
